

Catesby Estates Partners with the CLA

The Catesby planning team went on the road with the Country Land and Business Association (CLA) with a series of roadshow events based around planning and land promotion.

The CLA is a membership organisation for owners of land, property and rural businesses across the UK.

The events were held in Bedfordshire, Oxfordshire, Kent and Surrey with a further event taking place in Warwickshire next week.

Over the course of the events, Catesby spoke to and met with over 250 landowners and land agents in core locations where they are actively seeking new land sites for our promotion portfolio.

The Catesby speakers included Ed Barrett, Victoria Groves and David Morris, who were supported by members of the land team who were on hand to speak to landowners about their sites and the potential for future development.

The event covered useful tips and tricks for navigating the planning system, what makes a good site and the land promotion process, along with a range of case study examples of sites Catesby has either promoted in the past or currently has under promotion.

Country Land and Business Association (CLA) Events Manager Elaine Molton said:

“As an organisation that represents the interests of farmers, landowners and rural businesses we are always open to working with professionals who can provide an expert view on topics of importance for our members.

“It was a pleasure to partner with Catesby Estates at our planning seminars and for their land team to share their knowledge and experience of how to navigate the potential pitfalls of the planning system.”
